

ENDS HIS TROUBLES.

Former President of Failed Knickerbocker Trust Co. Commits Suicide.

PAD BEEN BUSTED FROM OFFICE

Once a Power in New York Financial World He Had Been Forced to Resign in Consequence of Suspension of His Company.

New York Nov 15—Charles Tracy, former president of the Knickerbocker Trust company and until recently a power in the financial world, shot and killed himself in his home. His loans with the bank it is said are amply secured and when he was forced from its presidency he was in all respects and purposes eliminated as a factor in banking circles. What effects his unexpected taking off might have had on the financial situation generally had long since been discounted. In distress of mind over the disposition of his private fortune and the loss of his high standing among business associates, ultimate qualms caused him the hidden drift that broke his health and reason.

At the time that Tracy was dying a handful of friends were concluding an arrangement by which the loose ends of the banker's many enterprises were to be gathered up and financed by a stock company which if not wholly successful would at least rescue from the wreckage sufficient to insure the promoter's future financially. The conference broke up at the announcement that Mr. Barney was dead.

Aimed for the Heart

Mr. Barney, who was in his 57th year, shot himself while alone in his chamber on the roof of the second floor of his home. The bullet entered below the heart and lodged under the left shoulder blade. He died about 2 o'clock p.m.

Mrs. Barney insisted that as she reached the bed chamber her husband stood upright, his right hand resting for support upon the head of the bed. As she stepped inside the door Mr. Barney fell to the floor. Asbel Barney said that he was called by Mrs. Meade and found his father alone and senseless upon the bed.

From the continuing stories due to the excitement of the hour it was determined that Mr. Barney deliberately shot himself while alone soon after rising. As the bullet entered his body he fell unconscious upon the bed. The report of the revolver startled the family. Mrs. Meade was the first to reach the chamber and she summoned the physician. Dr. Dixon responded and also called two other physicians. Mr. Barney was referred to Dr. Dixon, who was his family physician, said.

Died in His Bed

In reporting this to the coroner Mr. Dixon added: "With this I conclude. Come out at intervals."

Either was administered and efforts were made to remove the bullet but they were not successful. During periods of consciousness the patient suffered much but according to those who were with him made no statement other than that quoted by Dr. Dixon.

A desk in the chamber was littered with memos and mixed with papers including letters from bankers and financial correspondents but the coroner was unable to find any communication from Barney that suggested a purpose of self destruction.

Mr. Barney was born in Cleveland on January 27, 1851. He was the son of A. H. Barney, president of the United States Express company. After being graduated from Williams college in 1876 he married Miss Emily Whitney, sister of William C. Whitney.

Greensburg, Pa. Nov 17—Constable John McGaugh of Apollo and Constable William F. Belliveau of Avon were told by the police authorities at Greensburg that a Mr. Ecker, the brother of Fermin Ecker, who broke out of the jail at Apollo last week, was now in a mining village about four miles south of Greensburg. These constables, when they were talking to Fermin Ecker, told them his brother was working in a mine with him.

When they did not arrest them they replied that they investigated where these brothers were on November 15 the day they are supposed to have been released. George P. Banks of Trafford, Pa., and found that these men were working in a mine at Saltsburg on that date. The time books of the coal company at Saltsburg they say show that the Ecker brothers were working that day.

"The only thing they are wanted for at Apollo is jail breaking," said the constables, and some day they will come to Apollo and pay for the damage they did in breaking the bars of their cells and that's all there will be to it."

The iron crowbar fell from the hands of another workman and struck his left toe. Dunbar Furnace Company First Firm to Use Those of Connellsville Cleaning House

The first pay checks to be issued by the Connellsville Cleaning House were those paid by the two men who were working at the rear of the building. FRIDAY EVE., NOVEMBER 15, 1901.

A TIMELY AND PROPER PROTEST.

A timely and proper protest has been entered by Josiah N. Thompson, in behalf of Fayette county building interests, against the recent Federal Government orders regarding Postmasters and Internal Revenue Collectors to accept no checks or drafts in payment of postage dues and taxes and to remit the Government deposits in the cities of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia nothing but currency and generally against the discrimination being practised by the city banks against the country banks.

It is estimated that the Government collects from $110,000 to $120,000 per week in Fayette county. Under the new orders, this will have to be remitted in currency to the city depositaries. Instead of being deposited in the local banks, it will be remitted to the city depositaries by bank drafts. It must be sent in hard cash by express.

The effect of this is to drain the country of that much currency every week. If the city banks would reciprocate by honoring the demands of the local banks for currency, currency which it is understood is due them from the city banks where it has been on deposit, there would be no discrimination; but the city banks have so far refused to do this.

Nor is this all. Not only have they cut off this currency to the country, but they have invented the Pay Check, a device intended to avoid the necessity on their part of furnishing currency for the pay rolls of the big corporation doing their manufacturing business in Fayette county and their banking business in Pittsburgh.

The burden of furnishing this currency is thereby attempted to be shifted upon the shoulders of the Fayette county banks. The latter, with the assistance of local merchants and meeting the situation annually and thoughtfully, but they are safeguarding the community as much as possible. The reservation of the status quo for the recent Government orders will assist them materially.

It is generally agreed that the situation will not be of long duration. Already it has improved. Secretary Cortelyou, no later than last night, told the bankers of New York what they must do and the people what they ought to do.

Now that the financial storm appears to be subsiding, let us turn our attention to the relief of the country at large. There are heavy demands on all available funds for the movement of the crops, for the payment of other mercantile undertakings and for the employment of labor. One of the most gratifying incidents has been the patriotic and generous contributions of labor organizations to the appeal of employers for their cooperation.

The hoarding of money, the exacting of high interest, the speculations in bonds and the like, have been a curse to the country.

John Boldboy Larkin wants Pittsburgh to build its own subway. John is determined that Pittsburgh shall have municipal ownership of some sort. John is a Democrat and has been reading Colonel Bryan's speeches.

The deer season is on, but in this section the deer seem to be out.

Prohibition is on again in Somerset. The town is suffering from a water famine.

The Solid South thinks it is time for a Southern Democratic candidate for President. Colonel Bryan ought to move down a bit.

The Third Term tree is budding and the White House, but if the President has been strong it hasn't made any loud "holler" about it.

Mercury got mixed up with the gods in the vicarage and the astronomers, professedly old amateur, failed to put him across the sun's line.

Councils seem to be the center of a teaching improvement association.

The deceased wife's sister is still alive in England.

The reorganization of Joseph Bryan's business is alarming, even to his friends, by his completeness and vigor.

It is suggested that Albert Jernigan's negotiations to be a Presidential leader in the Senate. He is a name of a prophet.

Locks Merle Moore to go the south with the Constitutional members to-day when he said, "We are not afraid of 'em."

Some disgruntled Prohibitionists insist that Beulah Littles' halo isn't straight. Some people would find dust on the Throne of Grace.

We are slowly but surely weathering the situation. All that is needed is patience and confidence. At the meeting of Congress within a few weeks the situation will be remedied by legislation, the necessity for which is apparent when we consider the statement of Mr. Thompson, that from 92 to 95 per cent. of the nation's business is done through the medium of bank checks and drafts, and but from 5 to 8 per cent. in actual currency. Secretary Cortelyou recalls in this connection the language of a former President in similar language.

The man who didn't know whether he was knocked off the trolley car or fell or probably a bullet in the head, was a man who had the sidewalk blow up and hit him in the face.

Colonel Bryan has spoken. He is a receptive candidate for President. Since 1896 he has never been anything else.

England has drawn a big poker hand.

Likely, slightly, likely they fall.

The first white flakes of beautiful.

The Gas Man laughed about to see.

And rubbed his hands with gaudy pace.

While round and round with eager face.

The hands clapped on the motor's face.

The poor man looked in with weary eyes.

He had a good time.

He had wondered if his Pay Check would be settled or lost or destroyed by fire.

We are slowly but surely weathering the situation. All that is needed is patience and confidence.

The Courier and The Center.

The Connellsburg Daily Courier was five years old Saturday. It's a mighty interesting five-year-old, too. The old Weekly Courier was long accepted since the beginning of the daily. It has

ruined by the ravages of sheep-killing dogs.

When properly registered and taxed, however, dogs are personal property and may not be killed on mere suspicion. Their owners will have to be shown, and there's where the State Constabulary would have a chance to practise the detective business.

While engaged in this useful work the State Constabulary might board school like the schoolmarm did in other times. As a rule it would be good boarding with plenty of fresh country air.

By all means let the Cossacks be the Defenders and Protectors of the innocent flock.

The cause of the Democratic defeat in Pennsylvania is explained by the recent and popular support of the Western Pennsylvania Messenger, official organ of the Rockwater Democracy of Greene County. It says the Republican victory was due to the fact that the Democrats did not come out and vote. The Democrats would not only have to come out and vote, but they would have to repeat the operation a second time to win a Democratic majority in Pennsylvania.

Robberies continue to be common and they will not cease so long as the right-minded fraternity and a good bank to rob.

The railroads are not abandoning improvement. They evidently see business ahead.

The only crop that seems to be particularly short just now is the currency crop, yet we are told by the Treasury Department that there is a $100,000,000 in coin being turned somewhere. It looks as if the Bank Banks were doing more than their share of the business.

The slowing up of the coke trade and other industries may make the railroads worse off.

Hard times do not seem to be interfering with business this week.

Colonel Bryan is being urged by some Democrats to give an Government Ownership. It can reccomend us right. The Colonel never had much ownership in the Government, but he has been a willing Barks ever since 1896.

The juvenile population are having a period of inflation. The mumps are in their midst.

The railroad schedules seem to be much the same yesterday, to-day and to-morrow.

John Boldboy Larkin wants Pittsburgh to build its own subway. John is determined that Pittsburgh shall have municipal ownership of some sort. John is a Democrat and has been reading Colonel Bryan's speeches.

The deer season is on, but in this section the deer seem to be out.

Prohibition is on again in Somerset. The town is suffering from a water famine.

The Solid South thinks it is time for a Southern Democratic candidate for President. Colonel Bryan ought to move down a bit.

The Third Term tree is budding and the White House, but if the President has been strong it hasn't made any loud "holler" about it.

Mercury got mixed up with the gods in the vicarage and the astronomers, professedly old amateur, failed to put him across the sun's line.

Councils seem to be the center of a teaching improvement association.

The deceased wife's sister is still alive in England.

The reorganization of Joseph Bryan's business is alarming, even to his friends, by his completeness and vigor.

It is suggested that Albert Jernigan's negotiations to be a Presidential leader in the Senate. He is a name of a prophet.

Locks Merle Moore to go the south with the Constitutional members to-day when he said, "We are not afraid of 'em."

Some disgruntled Prohibitionists insist that Beulah Littles' halo isn't straight. Some people would find dust on the Throne of Grace.

We are slowly but surely weathering the situation. All that is needed is patience and confidence.

At the meeting of Congress within a few weeks the situation will be remedied by legislation, the necessity for which is apparent when we consider the statement of Mr. Thompson, that from 92 to 95 per cent. of the nation's business is done through the medium of bank checks and drafts, and but from 5 to 8 per cent. in actual currency.

Secretary Cortelyou recalls in this connection the language of a former President in similar language.

The man who didn't know whether he was knocked off the trolley car or fell or probably a bullet in the head, was a man who had the sidewalk blow up and hit him in the face.

Colonel Bryan has spoken. He is a receptive candidate for President. Since 1896 he has never been anything else.

The Courier and The Center.

The Connellsburg Daily Courier was five years old Saturday. It's a mighty interesting five-year-old, too. The old Weekly Courier was long accepted since the beginning of the daily. It has been the medium for the coke country of which Connellsburg is the center of gravity. The Courier is always full of ginger. It is one of the very best dailies published in Western Pennsylvania.

SOMERSET COUNTY COURT IN SESSION.

Two Judges on Bench in Trial of Civil Cases.

VERDICTS IN DAMAGE SUITS.

Lightning Rod Agents Lose One Case Against Farmer—Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company the Defendant in Two Suits.

Special to The Courier
SOMERSET, Pa., Nov. 15.—The special November term of the Court of Common Pleas has been in progress since the first of the week. There were 45 cases set for trial, and of that number there have been 18 disposed of by trial, settlement or continuance. Judge W. Rush Gilliam of Chambersburg is holding court in room No. 1, and Judge Kooser is sitting in room No. 2. Miss G. G. Givings of Pittsburgh is the reporter in room No. 1. Out of the list of 35 petit juries called for the first week there were 15 absences.

Judge Kooser heard the case of Chambers & McKendrick against W. H. Rum Ringer of the neighboring town of Emporium. In 1902 the plaintiff, of whom Mr. Chambers is now dead, were engaged in the lightning rod business with headquarters at Windber. They installed lightning rods on the barn of the defendant and presented a bill of $70 which Ringer refused to pay, alleging that the rods were installed without his consent. The plaintiff urged that Ringer ordered the installation of the rods. The jury returned a verdict in favor of Ringer.

In two suits against Daniel R. Zimmerman, a well known dealer in coal and residing in Somerset, damages were ordered by Judge Kooser. The plaintiffs were J. C. Fehlner and Frank Benninger, both of Butler County. According to testimony introduced during the trial Zimmerman took options on several headlands of coal lands situated in Butler county and owned by the plaintiffs. These options, which were taken in 1903, specified that in the event of defendant D. R. Zimmerman and his agent, A. A. Stutzman, who is since deceased, failed to take the land, they should notify the grantors, Zimmerman and Benninger, who would then prepare deeds for the property and present them to the plaintiffs for signatures. Stutzman gave notice that he would take the property and deeds were prepared. Zimmerman refused to sign the deeds. Actions against Zimmerman were instituted in Butler county and then Benninger recovered $12,600 and Benninger $1,200. Mr. Zimmerman's counsel alleged that he was not a party to the acceptance of the options by Stutzman.

The case of S. A. Kelder against Al Mart F. Herrell, administrator of M. J. Hartell, deceased, was tried for the third time and a verdict was returned awarding $1,200 to S. A. Kelder. A former verdict awarded Kelder $875. The real defendants in this action are the Lo-Sunshine Company of Johnstown. The facts in the case are that number of years ago the Rev. S. S. Kelder conducted a general store on the site now occupied by the town of Windber. He transferred the store to his son, A. A. Kelder, who is plaintiff in the present action. The Lo-Sunshine Company sent M. J. Hartell, their Sheriff of Somerset County, to make sale of the store to satisfy certain bills in their favor. The property was sold regardless of the fact that it was owned by S. A. Kelder and the debt, had been contracted by the Rev. S. S. Kelder, his father. This action was then instituted and has now been tried three times. He may be unable to date in time, he may bring a verdict in his favor.

Catherine Trosiers suit against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company for an act to recover $3,000 damages for the killing of her husband William Trosier, a Northern Union owner, who was struck by a train as he was driving across the B. & O. tracks on November 10, 1905, at Phillipsburg between Sand Spring and Glencoe, has been tried and is now in the hands of the jury, but up to this time no verdict has been returned.

In the case of H. H. Custer of Homestead, the Johnstown Vehicle Company, a settlement has been effected and the Johnstown concern will pay $750 to Custer. This was an action on an assumption.

The suit of Dr. Hurst Hooper of Johnstown vs. George Trent of Lutie was tried and a verdict returned in favor of the defendant. The action was to recover $75 from Dr. Hooper for medical services rendered, the amount being due on a bill of the 11th of April, 1906, which Dr. Hooper alleged that the bargain be broken him, and Dr. Hooper was that the claim should be removed and counted for a reasonable sum of money and that it be paid. Dr. Hooper, according to Trent's statement, removed the case, but failed to completely cure it and then presented a bill for $75. The jury believed Trent's story and returned their verdict in his favor.

The case on trial at present is that of Mabel Beachey, formerly of Somerset, but now of Johnstown, vs. the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, lessor and operator of the Somerset & Cambria Railroad Company. This suit was brought to recover damages in the sum of $25,000 for injuries sustained by Miss Beachey in the Kaufmann's Rink at about 8:30 A.M. on August 1, 1907. Miss Beachey alleges that she was thrown from a car window and then the car fell upon her. Her spine, she claims, was permanently injured and her shoulder was severely injured. This case will occupy several days in the trial between Somerset and Philadelphia.

Among the cases disposed of by settlement was that of Lucinda Caputo of Connellsville, township, against the Johnstown Paper Company of Connellsville. In the sum of $5,000. It was alleged that in building his road from Johnstown to Windber, the defendant company constructed a large and unsightly embankment which caused the water to overflow the farm of the plaintiff. The bridge over Beaver River was also damaged by the company and thus a portion of the plaintiff's land was covered by water. The settlement was upon the conditions that $2,750 be paid the plaintiff by the defendant company $50 of that amount to be restored to the dimension of 2 feet in length and 6 feet in width.
